

Kirkcaldy Foodbank – Chairperson Description

Kirkcaldy Foodbank Chair

Kirkcaldy Foodbank is seeking a new chairperson.

The principal skill of the successful candidate will be a deep passion for supporting those in food poverty and working with partners to mitigate its underlying causes.

They will have an understanding of how to build a compassionate community. Their own life skills will be invaluable in assisting the board to ensure efficient and effective governance of the charity in order to build upon the strategic aims of Kirkcaldy Foodbank.

They will have proven experience of being a strategic leader and be able to foster effective partnerships connections, as well as understanding the importance of good communications and how to build an expansive volunteer base with a wide range of talent.

They will also have the ability to empower their teams and be able to successfully navigate between differences of opinion, while always acting with respect, compassion and integrity.

They will need to have an understanding of the distinctive nature of the charitable sector and other third sector organisations.

Good understanding of governance, financial accountability and risk is key to ensuring the longevity of the foodbank.

Anyone who might be interested in applying and wants to find out more should contact secretary Neill Mitchell via email at neill.mitchell@kirkcaldyfoodbankcharity.onmicrosoft.com